CUPE representative Gwen Hewitt, right, addresses protesters outside the Minden Hospital. She urged the group to make sure those responsible for the future of hospital services in the area know how vitally important the Minden facility is to the community.

Protesters told

'Make your voices heard'

by Andrew Milne

"We have to stop complaining to each other about this in the coffee shops, and make our voices heard."

Those are the words of Gwen Hewitt, CUPE representative at the Minden Hospital, speaking to a crowd of close to a hundred people who showed up September 7, to protest service reductions and threats of closure at the facility.

The hospital's in-patient ward is now closed. The emergency ward is closed from midnight to 8 a.m. daily, and may be further reduced in hours or closed after the end of the month — the deadline given by the Ministry of Health to parent hospital St. Joseph's of Minden for submitting a new operating plan. The lack of doctors in the community, and the expense of bringing them in from outside, are cited as the main cause for the closures.

CUPE workers and some members of the community demonstrated briefly and in orderly fashion in front of the facility, wearing placards reading "Save the Hospital" and "Dollars vs. Lives — there is no choice".

The crowd was for the most part older — the people who probably feel most keenly the dangers posed by a closure. Their numbers were relatively few, and their voices reflected the years they have lived, but they chanted "Save the Minden Hospital".

One older gentleman, in the milling crowd that assembled before the speeches had begun, shrugged with bemusement. "I've never been in a protest before. What do I do?" he asked.

Hewitt was only too glad to tell him.

Said Hewitt, "We have been silent. We cannot afford to be silent any longer. It is up to us as members of the community to speak up; speak up so the board of St. Joseph's hear us when we say this is a vital service; hear us when we say that we won't stand to be shut down; and hear us to know that we have needs that must be met, that St. Joseph's board must accept its responsibility. We must speak out so our MPP can hear us. He cannot lobby on our behalf if in fact he does not have the information or the demand from his constituents to back him up."

"At present we are being told that financial resources are the main reason for our department being closed. We cannot put a dollar value on a human life. We must speak out against this outrage, and we must make ourselves very clear...we will not accept this, and we will not just sit by quietly while the doors are closed. At the present time this community has been guaranteed emergency service 16 hours per day until October 31. No one is telling us what is happening after November 1. We deserve to have the answer and we deserve to have it now, not on November 1 at 8 o'clock in the morning."

"We must continue to be vocal. Today is not the end. It is the beginning. We must accept our responsibility as a community, and not lie back and let this happen."

Long-time supporter of the Minden Hospital, Doug Campbell also addressed the gathering.

Further funding cuts expected in child care

by Andrew Milne

Childcare workers, parents, and even some children met October 4 to discuss the future of child care in the counties of Haliburton and Victoria.

Sue Greives, director of CHACE Place, and co-chair of the information session, explained the forum was to share information with parents and childcare workers, in a sector increasingly awash with rumours and unspoken fears.

It is likely, however, that despite their best efforts, most left the meeting with as much anxiety as information. Simply put, says Greives, they don't know much yet.

"What we do know," she told those gathered, "is (Ontario Minister of Finance) Ernie Eves has said our wage subsidy is up for negotiation, and we'd be lying to you if we said we might be okay. The greater likelihood is that it will be cut. We don't want to sensationalize things, but then neither do we want to be naive. That is likely to go."

The wage subsidy, says Greives, boosts public sector child care workers salaries only on average to around $10 an hour — or approximately $23,000 a year. Cutting or reducing it would leave the workers with even leaner paycheques — but no one knows yet if that will happen, or, if it does, how deep the cut would be. They do know, as does everyone, that the Ministry of Community and Social Services (MCSS) still has another $40 million to find of the $170 million reduction target they were given in July, and there are more cuts on the horizon — in the November budget, and budgets to follow.

The workers in child care aren't the only ones taking the hits. A JobsOntario subsidy helping pay for day care for parents in job training programs and others attempting to return to the work force, was reduced shortly after the first round of cuts — from 100 percent funding to 80 percent. Due to a somewhat tortuous set of municipal and provincial agreements, this has meant different things in Haliburton and Victoria. Haliburton parents, should they be able to afford it, can still get the 80 percent subsidy, if they can put up the 20 percent themselves. Victoria parents do not have the option.

Jackie Mayhew, a Haliburton parent at the forum, who has used the subsidy, says she wonders if this isn't rather short-sighted on the part of the government.

Said Mayhew, "It's not just a matter of losing the child care and all the benefits that go with it. It's that I don't know that I'd be able to afford to work. So what (Ontario Premier Mike) Harris' government is proposing to do is not only to put some child care workers out of work, but to put me out of work. I don't know if this is a really smart move."

Margaret Johnston Jones, Child Care Community Developer in Victoria, says that the amount of cuts made to the MCSS (around 60 percent of the July cuts) and to childcare seem to her to reflect priorities she's not sure the communities affected share. "The point is we want families to have choices and options in quality situations. We want to make sure that children are being looked after in safe environments, in nurturing environments," she says.

Greives says the workers are taking the cuts well, but the stress levels are increasing. The lack of consultation on the part of the government, she says, is particularly disconcerting.

"I really do believe they feel the election was all the consultation they needed," she says. "I really believe — this is personal — but I really believe that the people who voted for the Conservatives didn't vote for the kind of cuts that are coming down... I know too that people voted for MPP Chris Hodgson because they wanted someone who believes in and supports Haliburton County. They didn't vote him in to be one of Harris' marionettes. We want to challenge Chris to really hear what all of his constituents are saying, not just the 51 percent of the eligible voters who got the conservatives in — I know he believes in this county, and I want to challenge him to be an independent spokesperson for this county."

'Free' building may prove to be too costly to move

The following items were discussed at the September 28 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council.

Free building may be too expensive
The Museum Committee will be asked to review a proposal to relocate a century store from Gelert to the museum complex in Minden.

After the initial inspection of the 20 by 30 foot building, it was decided that it would be suitable for the museum complex. Closer inspection, however, revealed that the floor of the structure was not solid enough to withstand the move without substantial repairs.

Public works superintendent Clayton Cameron pointed out to council that the cost making the building solid enough for the move and actually moving it, would completely deplete the Museum Committee reserves. He added that the building would need considerable renovations once it was at the museum complex site.

"It wouldn't be a very serviceable building," Cameron noted.

Since council has no funds set aside for such renovations, it could be quite some time before the building would be suitable for public access.

The Museum Committee had recommended calling for tenders to move the building after the initial inspection. Council will ask the committee to review the new information before any further action is taken.

Fenced in

The owner of a Newcastle Street residence attended Thursday's council meeting to make municipal officials aware of some problems associated with the playground next to the municipal office.

Bill Beers, who's property is adjacent to the playground and parking lot, told council that the row of trees that partially separates his lot from municipal property acts as a place for the older kids to ambush the younger ones who use the park. They also serve as a base for rock fights, he said.

Beers also said that people have been cutting across his property going to and from the park. He asked if council would consider extending the six-foot chain link fence that partially separates his property from the municipality's.

Councillor Grant Plooard asked Beers if the situation had improved after the basketball court had been built next to the fire hall. Beers replied that there had been no noticeable improvement.

Council decided to act on the suggestion and extend the fence at a cost of $2,250.

Rotary sign

The Minden Rotary Club got the go-ahead to erect a sign at the tennis courts acknowledging the club's participation in the funding of the project.

The Rotary Club was instrumental in the original construction of the courts.

Council said it should be made clear that any other organizations that contributed towards the courts may have their contributions recognized in a similar way.

The Rotary Club will pay the cost of having its sign made and installed.

Man dies in boating mishap

A Scarborough man is dead following a boating accident October 1.

The mishap occurred Sunday afternoon while 24 year old Frans Nieuwland was fishing from a canoe on Horseshoe Lake. The boat capsized in fast moving water. Nieuwland is believed to have become entangled in the anchor line.

Despite the efforts of his fishing companion and a number of area residents who responded to call for help, they were unable to free the man in time.

Nieuwland was pronounced dead on arrival at Minden Hospital.

Foul play is not expected.

SSFC Haliburton campus

College reports another successful year

by Andrew Milne

The Haliburton campus of Sir Sandford Fleming College reported a successful year at the October 4 board of governor's meeting at the Sisco Building in Haliburton.

The ecotourism program, says principal Barb Bolin, was certainly one of the highlights, and is expected to be as successful this year as well.

"It went extremely well last year," says Bolin, "and we have just an amazing group of students in again. You have to have a degree or diploma already to come into that program, and we've got some people with amazing backgrounds."

Bolin also reports some anxiety on the part of the school as to how to deal with potential budget cuts incurred as the provincial government reduces its expenditures as expected in the November budget.

"Certainly all of us are anxious about what's going to happen," she says. "We all know there are going to have to be cuts — it's just the speed of change and the impact that these changes are going to have on students that is a concern."

Bolin was enthusiastic about developments at the campus this year. She told the board meeting there had been:

- a healthy level of applications to the School of Fine Arts programs — 2,850;

- the return of the hardwood lumber grading program to the campus. The program, which trains students in the grading of finished lumber, is the only one held in English in Canada as far as Bolin knows. The school used to hold the courses here years ago, but demand had dropped off due to a recent slump in the lumber industry;

- a high demand, resulting in overflow lineups, for the college's academic upgrading programs. "We're currently looking for ways to resolve that issue," said Bolin;

- a new initiative to run some of the School of Fine Arts programs in the fall. Bolin said some difficulty was encountered when the closure of the Bark Lake Facility forced them to change the location of the courses, but they were successful, and the college expects to be able to run them in the spring and next fall as well;

- three different apprenticeship programs starting this fall, including basic and advanced level cook apprenticeship programs, a horticultural apprenticeship program, and a building maintenance mechanic apprenticeship program;

- a ten week computer course currently underway, and a second office skills program starting this winter.

Bolin also told the board that the school was bringing in a lot of people from outside the area, particularly the students of the ecotourism management and horticultural apprenticeship programs.

The timber management program, she said, would be nice to have back. "We ran it for a number of years before," she said, "and then when the lumber industry took a little fit we didn't. Now there's a demand again for training lumber inspectors. Traditionally people have had to go to a school in Memphis, Tennessee, but that's a fairly expensive venture, so we ran it for years, and that need was met here... That grader can be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the mill, because if they don't grade it properly and they grade it lower than it should be, then a board that's worth $12 is sold for $8. So multiply that by the number of boards that are going out."

People would be coming from all over the province to attend that program, Bolin concluded.

Mock bus accident tests skills of emergency personnel

by Jerry Grozelle

A mock bus accident staged in the Cedarhurst Quarry at Coboconk on October 1 drew together more than 60 emergency service personnel from the northern part of Victoria County. The exercise, which was eight months in the planning, was intended as a learning experience, especially for the five fire departments involved.

About 50 Bexley, Fenelon, Somerville (three stations), Eldon and Laxton, Digby, Longford volunteer fire fighters, along with 10 ambulance personnel and three Ontario Provincial Police officers from the Coboconk detachment, participated.

Dean Spry, deputy fire chief of the Bexley Fire Department, was the chair of the 30-member Mock Bus Accident Committee, which started preparations for the training exercise in February.

"It went very well," Spry said. "It was a very good learning experience."

He said that some things that look good in theory don't always work in practice. The time to learn these things is during an event such as the mock bus accident.

By most accounts, the event served the purpose for which it was intended, which was to strengthen knowledge of hands-on practices and fortify the tiered response system of the area.

The exercise required the use of assessment skills in

Emergency services teams learn to work together

categorizing injuries, extrication techniques, lessons in crowd control, incident command and scene management. All of the preceding focused on the co-ordination of teamwork between the emergency service providers.

Spry said he was impressed with the co-ordination and the fact that so many emergency personnel were able to work together to keep the situation under control. The mock emergency was "called in" at 1:47 p.m. and Spry said the last of the 42 casualties, (some of whom were in serious condition) was removed from the bus in 73 minutes from the time of the initial call.

The joint effort gave everyone concerned the opportunity to learn what can be expected from the other emergency personnel in similar circumstances.

Pug Allen, supervisor for the Fenelon Ambulance Station, was a safety officer at the mock accident.

"It was a really good training exercise for the fire departments," he said. "They learned a lot."

Allen said it was also a learning experience for the ambulance personnel. They know what to expect and how they can work with fire fighters in a similar situation. They also know what equipment and the level of training the various departments have at their disposal.

"Everything went well," Allen added. "Nothing went wrong."

The debriefing session after the event offered the opportunity to assess the responses of the various teams and analyze the areas where improvements could be made.

Allen said that another meeting will be held later this month for further study and comments.

The entire event was video taped from several perspectives. The tapes may be used for future training purposes.

"I was really pleased, and proud of the way all the services worked together," Allen said. "It was a good day. I don't think anybody walked away without learning something."

The general public wasn't given access the quarry to observe. Invited guests included members of councils and staff of the municipalities involved as well as emergency service providers, educators and the media.

Great care was taken to ensure that the area was adequately covered in case a real emergency had occurred. Allen said that one of the ambulances was called from the scene to assist as backup at a real emergency call.

Constable Dave Hall of the Coboconk OPP said that although the exercise was geared to fire fighters, something was to be gained by the two younger OPP officers who took part. He said they learned the capabilities of the emergency teams.

Fire fighters from seven fire stations in the northern portion of Victoria County as well as police and ambulance personnel took part in the mock bus accident at Coboconk on October 1.

"It was definitely a worthwhile day," Hall said.

He added that he thought it was good to have some elected officials as observers so they could get some first-hand knowledge of the equipment that is needed for various emergency purposes.

Hall pointed out that on a real highway situation, there wouldn't be as much room for emergency vehicles and personnel to manoeuvre and that the police would have played a more active role in crowd and traffic control.

Hall added that the exercise was a good way to find any shortcomings, if there are any.

"There's always room for improvement," he said.

John LeCraw of the Laxton, Digby and Longford Fire Department saw the exercise as "a good experience for everyone."

LeCraw said he didn't see any problems, adding that it gave everyone a rough idea of how well they could work together.

Posters announce presence

'Heritage Week' has racist background

by Andrew Milne

An avowedly racist group has been advertising a "European Heritage Week" on posters around the villages of Minden and Kinmount. The event is sponsored by two groups called Heritage Watch and the Nationalist Party of Canada.

The bright red, black, and white poster quotes a founder of the party, Don Andrews, describing the event as "an annual festival, beginning every Canadian Thanksgiving Day, is to commemorate the contribution of European culture and history to our multi-ethnic mosaic."

The posters first appeared on Main Street in Minden on the morning of September 30, and were probably posted the night before or early that morning.

Organizer Robert Smith, whose Toronto area phone number is cited as a contact number at the bottom of the poster, describes the event in equally innocuous tones.

"We're encouraging people to have a bit of a self-discovery," says Smith. "Go to the library, take out a few books, read about European history and culture, perhaps go to a museum or call their local university, find out if there are lectures there, or even go into an Italian restaurant, or a French restaurant, and enjoy a fine meal."

And no, says Smith, it doesn't matter to him if the culture that is being celebrated is the Jewish or Romany culture.

An investigator for the League of Human Rights of B'Nai Brith says he finds that description amusing.

Says Richard Berman, research director for the organization, "When he says multi-ethnic mosaic, I can just picture Andrews cackling with Smith over the wording of that one."

Berman says Andrews has been involved with the racist right in Canada since at least the early seventies, when he emerged as a leader of a group called the Western Guard, which, among other things, through their publication Straight Talk promoted racial segregation and suggested that Blacks and other racial minorities were inferior, and disproportionately involved in crime and immoral acts. Western Guard members, B'Nai Brith reports, were on many occasions arrested for charges ranging from weapons infractions through racial assaults and vandalism. Andrews personally was charged in an arson plot involving the possession of explosives in connection with an attempt to disrupt a soccer game at the University of Toronto involving a visiting Israeli team.

The Nationalist Party was formed by Andrews and others in 1977, when he was required by his parole agreement to quit the Western Guard. In 1985, Andrews and Smith were charged and convicted under section 281 (now 319) of the Criminal Code of Canada for the promotion of hatred, in connection with the contents of a newsletter they had been producing. The conviction was upheld through two appeals, in the Ontario Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Nationalist Party was also reported as being involved in the 1989 rally organized in Minden by John Beattie — unveiling the party flag on its way through the village.

Beattie was the leader of the Canadian Nazi party in the late 1960s. It is unclear however whether he was in any way involved with the posting of the posters.

Beattie was sighted in the Minden area around five weeks ago.

The star shaped symbol on the poster is the symbol of the Nationalist Party. The four part circle in the middle, by itself, is a common neo-Nazi symbol, and the badge of the openly racist Church of the Creator, described in the recent documentary "Hearts of Hate", seen on CTV.

Wolfgang Droege's now more notorious Heritage Front, formed in the late 1980s, was formed by Droege, Grant Bristow, and others. Both Bristow and Droege were involved with the Nationalist Party at the time. Bristow was later revealed to be a CSIS informer.

Smith said a number of private events were planned in the area in connection with the event, but he would not be more specific.

Berman says the Party started the "Heritage Week" event in 1994, writing the governments of several major cities for support. As the event was described in tones as innocuous as those on the poster, some major cities endorsed the event, as did Buckingham Palace, until City TV in Toronto broke the news on who was behind its promotion.

Berman said there is probably little cause for Minden and Kinmount residents to be overly concerned about the appearance of the posters. He hasn't heard of any public events connected with publicity, and Andrews is believed to be somewhat out of favour in the racist right at the moment.

"They made up a pile of posters," says Berman. "They're all over in Toronto, in various neighbourhoods, but all it takes is one guy with a stapler, posters, and some free time to make it look big. Keep in mind this is not a really popularly supported organization. People should be concerned, but people shouldn't panic. These are a bunch of racists who want to get their message out."

New life for Martin building in Harcourt

by Andrew Milne

A consortium of local businessmen may soon be giving the vacant Martin head office in Harcourt a new lease on life.

And they're dreaming big. The group of ten, coordinated by local realtor and management consultant Ken Sibbald, are planning to convert the facility into upscale time share resort units (TSRUs), marketed as an ecotourism experience.

Sibbald, who has had the property listed for sale for more than three years, says he believes the timing is perfect.

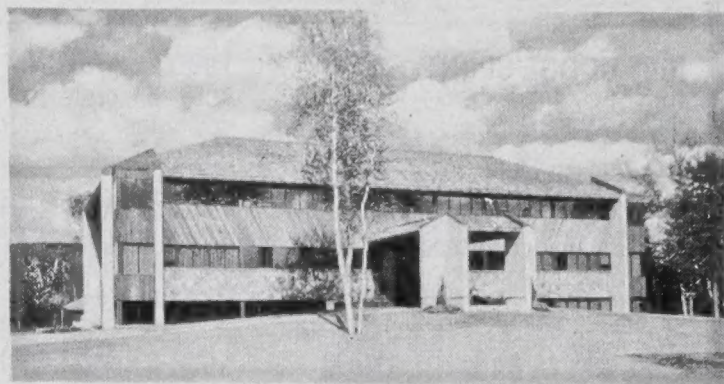

"Ecotourism is the fastest growing area of tourism in the world," says Sibbald. Canada has a fantastic future for that. We believe our timing is just right to provide a luxury resort for ecotourism. We do not have such a thing in Ontario per se. We have some that say we have some woods and you can walk around, but this is probably the only one connected with Algonquin Park, so it's a unique opportunity."

Ecotourism is a tourism concept centering on experiences of culture and natural history. It's generally involves small parties of tourists, exploring relatively isolated areas, and encourages awareness of ecological values, low impact on the environment, and relatively modest infrastructure, as opposed to the mass tourism concept.

Time share marketing generally involves the sale of a block of time to use a

...in sheep's clothing

The appearance of numerous bright red posters on hydro poles throughout the area brought a chilly reminder of events which unfolded in this community five years ago. The message on the posters is innocuous enough....it invites individuals to celebrate what is called "European Heritage Week". What isn't revealed in the message is that the organizations behind the so-called celebration, Heritage Watch and the Nationalist Party, are noted for their racist views.

Six years ago, a skin-head gathering was held near Minden. At that time the community rallied to confront this intrusion into our village. Through counter-rallies and the 'yes' poster campaign, the community demonstrated to the rest of the country and to those who were attracted by this ultra-right wing gathering, that there was little tolerance for the bigoted views espoused by the organizers.

We believe the feelings of the community, expressed in July 1989, are still strongly held today. We believe that this community, like most fellow Canadians, still holds to the view that racism has no place in our society. That belief was confirmed by the swift response of those who knew the true background of the Nationalist Party as they quickly removed the offensive messages.

The flurry of posters this past week in no way indicates a return to the situation this community experienced in 1989. However, it does provide a warning that perhaps some individual with extremist views believes this is fertile ground in which to sow seeds of hate. If nothing else, the presence of the posters should alert the citizens of the area and the country to be on guard. The views of these organizations, and others of the same ilk, will likely never disappear completely from our presence. Therefore we must be constantly vigilant and ready to respond to them no matter how benignly they are presented.

We require meaningful facilities for our ratepayers

The following is a copy of a letter sent September 19 to Minister of Health Jim Wilson in regard to emergency services at the Minden Hospital.

Dear Mr. Wilson:

The Municipality of Galway Cavendish is very concerned with the review by St. Joseph's Hospital of the emergency service and supporting stabilization beds at the Minden Hospital. Closing or a reduction in services would be devastating to our community.

There are approximately three hundred permanent and two thousand seasonal residents in our municipality that use this facility.

If it was closed, it would require over one hour travelling time to one of the closest alternative hospital.

We require meaningful facilities for our ratepayers. Anything less is unacceptable.

On behalf of our ratepayers, I would urge you to review this situation and give us the opportunity to meet with you to discuss this urgent situation.

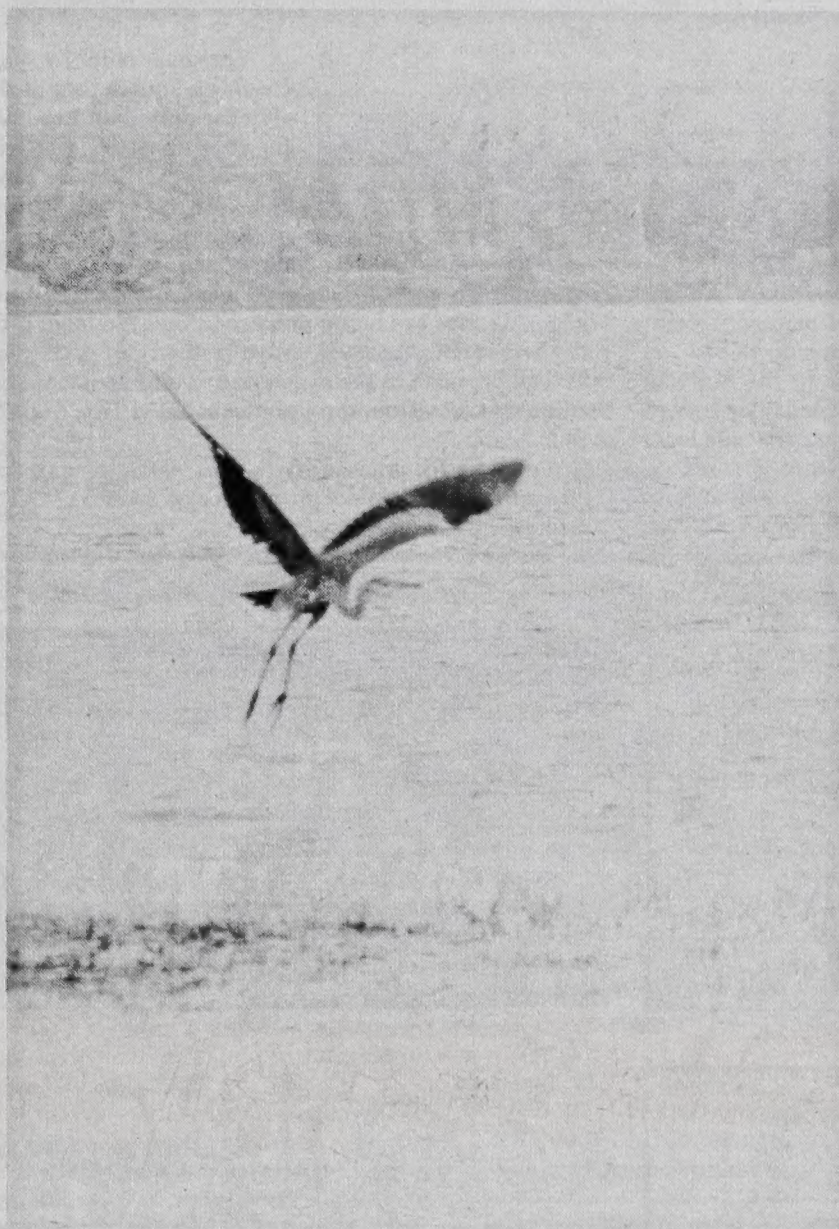

Peter Franzen,
Deputy Reeve,
Municipality of Galway Cavendish.

What a novel idea!

by Paul Pagnuelo

If someone were to ask you: "What is the most aggravating, difficult and complicated thing you do every year?" Chances are you would say, "Filling out my tax return."

If you have the strength of will to do your own taxes, without the help of an accountant, you'll be quickly overwhelmed! You'll start with a multi-paged tax form, and then have to turn to a thick book of instructions which will lead you into pages and pages of schedules. Failing to understand all that, you may want to go straight to the source of the confusion. Consulting the Income Tax Act doesn't seem to help. At 2,364 pages you're not quite sure where to begin.

As a last resort, you call the people responsible for this whole mess - Revenue Canada. They should be able to help. After all, they employ over 40,000 public servants, (about the size of a small city) to administer our colossal tax regime. But even though we taxpayers spend $2.2 billion on Revenue Canada they can't seem to find the answer you are looking for.

That's it! You're going to get some professional help.

But where? The choices are limitless. Professional tax preparation has become a lucrative business. Hundreds of thousands of accountants, lawyers, financial planners and people whose sole business is filing taxes are at your disposal. Maybe you'll choose the "hamburger helper" of tax preparation and buy a computer software package to do the work for you.

At the end of the day, you have to sit down and ask yourself, "Why did I have to go through all that? There has to be a simpler way."

Well, as a matter of fact, there is.

It's called the flat tax. The flat tax is designed to, among other things, create a tax system everyone can understand. The return, post card-sized, could be completed within a matter of minutes. Impossible, you say? How could you fit all the current deductions and credits onto a post card?

You can't - that's just it. Simplifying the tax system means getting rid of all of the tax concessions given to special interest groups under the sun - be they individuals or businesses. It's all these loopholes and shelters that make the system so complicated. While the genesis for almost every deduction has been based on good intentions, the result has been distorted economic decisions, lower productivity, the inequitable treatment of taxpayers and the high cost of compliance and administration.

With the elimination of almost every current deduction, a flat tax form would have anywhere from 12 to 18 lines. All you would have to do is indicate your income for the year, whether obtained through wages, salary, or pension benefits and deduct the basic personal allowance available to everyone (businesses would deduct the cost of production from their gross sales). Multiply the difference at a flat rate somewhere around 20% and you're done.

Now you can catch the baseball game, deal with the leaky faucet you have been meaning to fix or be there for your kid's musical recital.

Simplifying the tax system.

What a novel idea.

Don't forget: Nature always bats last

Time for a little environmental quiz, folks: where in the world do you think you would find the world's highest concentration of peregrine falcons?

Now remember - the peregrines are very rare averse indeed. They need high mountains and miles of pristine wilderness. Wealthy Arab sheiks covet the elusive creatures, often paying tens of thousands for black market nestlings. In the years after World War Two, their ranks were decimated by DDT which weakened their egg shells. Many environmentalists predicted the peregrine was on its way out.

So where would you go to find the healthiest remaining stock of peregrines? The high Arctic, perhaps? Somewhere in the trackless wastes of deepest South America? Perhaps high in the Rockies near Hundred Mile House?

Nope. You would go Gotham. Deepest darkest downtown Manhattan. The New York city area is awash with peregrines. They streak through the concrete canyons of Wall Street. They perch on the window ledges of the Empire State Building. They knock down pigeons in the skyways around the MetLife Building and the Marine Parkway. A nest in the girders of the Brooklyn Bridge recently disgorged two perfectly healthy peregrine chicks.

The Peregrine comeback wasn't entirely an Act of God. Humans helped. Biologists hand-reared peregrine chicks and eventually released them to "the wild". The transition to urban life was made easier by nesting boxes strategically placed on nooks and crannies of skyscrapers and bridges around New York.

Here in Canada, wildlife officials with Environment Canada were pleasantly shocked to discover a peregrine falcon nest on top of an office tower deep in the bowels of Hogtown - less than a stone's throw from the intersection of King and Young streets.

"This is the first time in over 50 years that peregrines have nested in southern Ontario" one official said.

We shouldn't really be all that surprised. If there's one lesson we pink, two-legged, mostly hairless creatures should have learned by now it's the near-endless ability of our fellow earthly inhabitants to adapt to the depredations we visit on this planet.

Take raccoons. Take coyotes. Take the Canada Goose. Years ago, all these creatures were associated with wilderness, or at the very least, rural living. Nowadays you can see raccoons dumpster diving in the downtown of most of our cities. Coyotes are moving into the suburbs and casting covetous eyes at Fido's dog dish.

And the Canada Goose? I can remember when news of a flight of Canada Geese would bring people piling out of the house, craning their necks skywards for a glimpse of the legendary Vee. Today, they stop traffic on Toronto's Lakeshore Boulevard and make a round of golf as hazardous as negotiating a minefield.

We're getting new species too. Who ever heard of zebra mussels a generation ago? Today by the billions they besmirch boat hulls and foul intake pipes from Cornwall to Kaministiquia.

And watch for something called the Round Goby. It's a fish - a tiny European import that showed up in the Great Lakes waters this year. Some doomsayers predict it will make the Zebra Mussel look like a mild heat rash.

We should never forget the cardinal rule of Life: Nature Bats Last. I'm reminded of something Timothy Leary once said at a press conference in England. Leary peered into his chemical crystal ball and predicted: "Deer shall graze on Charing Cross Road"

Well, sure, he was probably on drugs, but there was something arresting about the prophesy; the idea of deer daintily tip toeing across a major intersection in London, England, plucking grasses growing up between the cracks in the pavement.

Deer shall graze on Charing Cross Road.

Leary didn't say anything about people being there.

MINDEN BIA MEETING

Members of the Minden BIA are reminded of the meeting scheduled for this Wednesday morning, October 11, 8 p.m. at the Anson, Hindon and Minden Municipal office, (upstairs). This is an important meeting and the executive is hoping as many members as possible will be able to attend.

OOPS

In our report of the new cottage security service carried in this space last week, we goofed. The name of the service offered by Doug Shaw is Peace of Mind Property Protection. (While we don't usually note phone numbers here, Doug's new business missed the printing of the phone book this year. He can be reached at 286-4758.)

Association still behind sign project

The Minden Area Business Association is alive and kicking!

You haven't heard from us for several months -- the reflection of a successful and busy summer for most businesses in the Minden area.

The fall season allows us to energize our commitments, in particular the MABA special project, the new "Welcome to Minden" signs for Highway 35.

The Ontario Ministry of Transport has approved the placement of the signs and the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden has submitted and paid for formal applications to cover the signs. The money raised so far, ($4,685.51) has brought the signs to the halfway stage of construction and now we must consider how to raise the remaining portion. All the sign materials have been purchased and preparations completed. The rest of the project needs funds for sandblasting, painting, site preparation, foundation and supporting structures.

The business draw and yard sale have contributed to the start-up costs and we are now appealing to the community and service clubs for help. Volunteers will also be recruited to install the signs when materials are ready.

M.A.B.A.

by Gary Bloor

You can help by purchasing a square foot of the sign for only $50. In return for your donation, you will receive a certificate, suitable for framing, with a copy of the sign printed on it. Recognition will also be given to the fact that you helped the sign project. It's a great gift idea and Christmas is just around the corner. The certificates are being prepared now. We have official government approval so we're ready to go. Donations can be made to the Sign Fund, c/o of Minden Area Business Association, through the Minden Taxi Service at 286-2425.

Thank you for your patience, and watch this column for updates on the project plus notice of the next MABA meeting.

Senior Redmen continue to dominate

by Jerry Grozelle

The senior Redmen football team continues to trample the competition in the Kawartha West High School Football League. The latest team to fall victim to the Redmen was the Spartans from LCVI.

The Redmen blanked the senior Spartans 20-0 in Lindsay last week. In three games, the Redmen have scored 118 points while holding the opposition to 7.

The win over LCVI was accomplished without the team's star running back, Mike Bradley, who accounted for the lion's share of points in the first two games. He was on a field trip the day of the game in Lindsay.

Will Wallace opened the scoring for Haliburton in the first quarter, crossing the Lindsay line on an off-tackle play from four yards out. Kevin Morissette kicked the convert.

That was the only scoring in the first or second quarter.

"One of their players had a bad injury which kind of put a damper on the game," Redmen coach Gary Brohman said.

The Spartan player suffered a broken ankle that held the game up for more than half an hour.

The Redmen dominated the second half even more than the first, scoring two more touchdowns. Aaron Tomlinson gave Haliburton a 13-0 lead early in the fourth quarter.

"First, Aaron caught a pass for 29 yards and then, two plays later, he caught another one for 14 yards and scored a touchdown," Brohman said.

The Spartans blocked the convert attempt.

Wallace scored his second TD of the game on a one-yard plunge into the end zone late in the fourth quarter. Morissette's convert was good.

"The bottom line is we're three and zero," Brohman said. "We think we have a very solid offensive team in this league. We've been through the league once now and I can't see anybody beating us if we play up to our potential. Defensively, we haven't been really challenged."

Brohman said that challenge will come and the Redmen will have to continue to get better defensively.

The Redmen play Tuesday, October 10 in Fenelon Falls, Friday, October 13 at Weldon and on Thursday, October 19 the Spartans will come to Haliburton.

Inventor beats the odds, Fisherman's Caddy goes to market

by Jerry Grozelle

The chances of having an idea, even a good idea, become a patented, in-production item that's available for the public to buy are very slim. For every success story, there are hundreds of dreams that never see the light of day.

Eagle Lake resident Chris Bishop had an idea and it has turned into a saleable product called the Fisherman's Caddy.

Bishop says he was watching television and saw a commercial for a dehydrator. He says he thought he should be able to come up with a product that was marketable.

Being an avid fisherman, Bishop thought some sort of fishing aid might be the answer.

"I remembered reading somewhere that fishing was the number one recreational sport in the world and as soon as I said fishing, fishing rod holder jumped into my head," Bishop explained. "I wasn't watching a fishing show and I wasn't fishing. I just envisioned this thing and the final version was almost exactly what I envisioned. Originally, I didn't think about the towel or the different attachments. But, then I found out that a percentage of the rods are the pistol grip type, so I made an adapter to accommodate that."

The fly rod adapter rounded out the device's versatility and adaptability to any fishing style.

Bishop discussed the idea with his brother JD and his father, who both thought it was a good concept.

"So, I thought it was worth pursuing," he said.

He experimented with a curved piece of a plastic ice cream carton, some duct tape and an empty toilet paper roll. He says the initial prototype obviously wasn't strong enough to hold the rod, but "I could see where I was going with it."

A second prototype, made from a Crazy Carpet, still wasn't strong enough, but it served as a pattern for the final product. The device evolved into a unit that he could test in a fishing situation. When he was satisfied that he had what he was looking for, Bishop approached a patent lawyer, who thought it was an interesting idea.

"So, we proceeded to file a patent," he said.

The Fisherman's Caddy is a personal fishing rod holder that attaches to your belt and gives you free use of your hands to unhook a fish, change lures, eat lunch, or land a fish. Fisherman's Caddy is a convenient way to control your rod when you need both hands for other things. It also reduces the risk of rod breakage during the unhooking process as well as other times when fishing rods are vulnerable.

Bishop also recommends the Fisherman's Caddy for trolling.

"One of the key reasons for people losing fish is not setting the hook quickly enough," he said. "With the rod in the holder, as soon as the fish hits, you feel it immediately because you feel the tension on your hip. That allows you to set the hook faster, which allows you to catch more fish."

The Fisherman's Caddy is made to be strapped to the left hip, on a belt up to an inch and a half wide.

"It doesn't matter whether you're left or right handed," Bishop said, adding that the device works equally well for right or left handed anglers.

He said that it is actually better for a boat driver to have the holder on the left hip. He said he experimented with prototypes for either side and he found the left side to be the most versatile. Bishop says the device has a lot of range in positioning.

The fisherman's Caddy comes with three attachments to suit any type of fishing rod, including the straight type spinning rod butt, the pistol grip of a baitcasting rod and one for a fly rod.

Bishop said that although only about three per cent of anglers use a fly rod, they are the ones who would really benefit from the Fisherman's Caddy because they are traditionally standing in streams or rivers in a pair of waders.

"It's pretty hard to hold a fish, take the hook out of it and hold your rod at the same time," he said.

The device comes with a pair of 6 1/2-inch needle-nosed pliers and a hand towel.

The spark for Bishop's invention was implanted in February of 1994 and the patent was issued about 17 months later. Bishop said he worried the whole time, thinking that someone might beat him in the race to patent his idea.

During that time, he approached several manufacturers to get prices on producing the device. Some of the quotes for an initial run were more than $100,000.

"That was kind of scary," he admits. "But I didn't get discouraged."

The search for a manufacturer continued while the patent process was under way. Meanwhile, he got some ideas from the Canadian Plastic Institute about materials and moulding.

A deal was finally made with AMPM Manufacturing in Toronto. That company is making the parts and packaging the Fisherman's Caddy, complete with adapters, pliers and a towel. The pliers are made in China and the towels are produced in Winnipeg.

Bishop sold shares in his company to raise the money to get the device into production.

The latest and one of the most important steps in the evolution of this product is an advertising campaign. Two television commercials were shot a week ago on Eagle Lake near Bishop's home. A production crew from Toronto shot the footage that will be used in the commercials, recruiting Bishop's sister Angela Reed, his Brother JD and JD's girlfriend's son JT Lowes to appear in the commercials.

Bishop had shot a video of the prototype and showed it to Itallo Labignan from Canadian Sportfishing.

Bishop quotes Labignan as saying, "I've fished for 20 years and I've never seen anything like it. I can't believe I never thought of it."

Labignan and his partner (business and fishing) Henry Waschuk, both endorse the product and Labignan has agreed to appear in the commercial.

"He's behind it a hundred per cent," Bishop said. "He's been a big help in getting the project going."

The commercials are slated to run on TSN, CHEX, CKCO and on the Madison Square Garden Sports Network in the United States, starting on October 14.

Bishop says there are 60-million freshwater fishermen in North America.

"I'm just hoping to catch a very small portion of that market," he says.

Current production capabilities are 1,500 units per day. He says if the demand is greater than that, a second mould would be made.

Don't rush out to your local tackle shop looking for the Fisherman's Caddy. Initially, the product will only be available through direct marketing (mail or telephone orders). A 1-800 telephone number has been set up. Order forms are also going to run in local newspapers. Canadian orders will be shipped from Toronto and U.S. orders will be processed through a warehouse south of the border.

"The last 18 months has been a long haul," Bishop admits.

But, if the response to his product is favourable, it will all be worth while.

JD Bishop demonstrates the use of the Fisherman's Caddy, a holster type device for fishing rods. The device was invented by his brother Chris Bishop of Eagle Lake.

Haliburton teams lose to Weldon

Working like well oiled machines, the I.E. Weldon Wildcats rolled over both the Haliburton Redmen boys soccer teams in Kawartha West action last week.

The junior Redmen bowed to the Wildcats 6-0 and the seniors lost by a 6-2 score.

"I think that Weldon just has their number," said junior Redmen coach Dan LaPierre.

LaPierre said he's not sure whether it is the size difference or the skill difference that the Redmen have trouble adapting to when they tangle with the strong Weldon team.

"I wasn't greatly pleased, because I think they could play better," LaPierre said. "But I wasn't greatly disappointed either. They still showed some of the things they have to show to win."

The coach said his goalie didn't have a good day and the rest of the team made things worse by trying to help him out. One result was a couple of goals that were headed into their own net by Haliburton defenders.

"I.E. Weldon had to earn its goals this time, a lot more so than last time," LaPierre said.

The seniors suffered a similar fate, although the score could have been closer than the 6-2 final. The seniors also helped the Wildcats by allowing two shots to deflect off defenders past their own goalie.

"It was nothing embarrassing," senior coach Peter Bertelsen said. "It just happened. The shots were on their way in anyway."

Bertelsen admitted that it was a "ragged" game, adding that his team played well for portions of the game, but suffered some lapses on which the Wildcats were able to capitalize.

Ryan Goodall and Rich Simmons were the goal scorers for the Redmen. Both scored on penalty kicks.

The Redmen will play host to the Fenelon Falcons this Wednesday.

Jody Joanu of Minden was the winner of a loon full of loonies. The coin bank containing 500 loonies was the prize in a raffle sponsored by the Haliburton Region Historical Automobile Society of Canada meeting held in August in Haliburton. Jody accepts the prize from club member Gerald Wood.

Crowe notches four goals, adds two assists in Times win over Westside

by Jerry Grozelle

Times 10, Westside 3

On the heels of an 11-4 win a week earlier, The Times squad skated to another seven-goal victory in Minden Men's Hockey Association action October 2. The latest win for The Times was a 10-3 romp over Westside Jug City in the first of three Monday night games at the Minden arena.

The Times built a 6-3 lead in the first half and held Westside off the scoreboard for the second half, while adding four to their total.

Craig Crowe paced the attack for the winners, scoring four times and helping to set up two more. Craig Smith added a hat trick to The Times' score, while Dave Ward and Jamie Dollo and Jeff Black notched one apiece. Dollo had four assists to go with his goal and Black had two. Andy Schollig and Dave Hounsell contributed a pair of assists each to the win and Jarrett Campbell set up one goal.

John Walden scored twice for Westside and Doug Schell notched the single. John Hewson picked up two assists, with Paul Walker and Kim Hamilton notching one apiece.

Home 4, Hartwick 4

Home Hardware and Hartwick Construction battled to a 4-4 draw in the night's second game.

Home drew first blood, but Hartwick evened the score before the first half was over.

The second half saw Home Hardware score three in a row to take a 4-1 lead. But the Hartwick crew rebounded with three of its own, to salvage the tie.

Dave Hartwick notched two goals and one assist for the Home Hardware team, with Charlie Teljeur and Ron May adding a goal each. May also had one assist. Terry Allore had two assists, with single helpers going to Ben Manuge, Tom Miscio and Dwayne Warburton.

Dave Dollo netted two goals for Hartwick Construction and singles were scored by Scott Hamilton and Lawrence Loughheed. Scott Nesbitt assisted on three of the Hartwick markers, Dave Crego added a pair and one each went to Greg Hurrell, Bill Hogg and Crego.

Stamp 6, KDD 5

Two late goals won the last game of the night for Sid Stamp Fuels by a 6-5 margin over Kountry Double D. The Stamp crew tied the game at 5-5 and then scored the tie-breaker with the last goal of the contest.

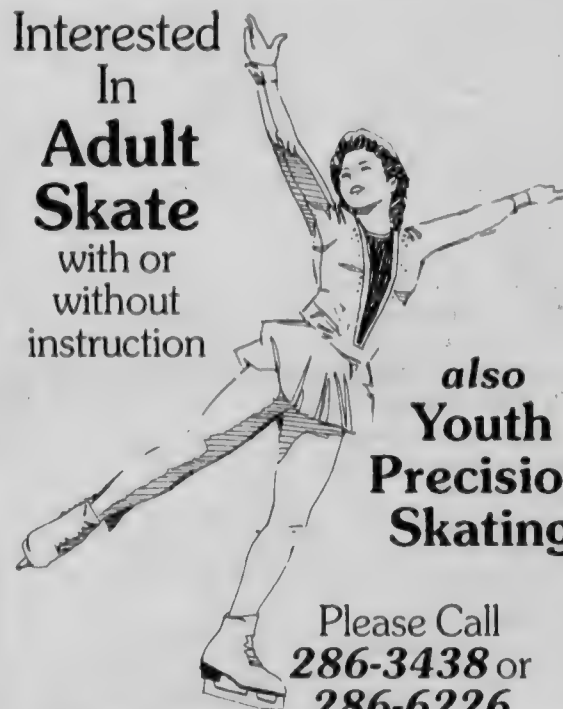

The game was tied at 3-3 when the buzzer sounded to end the first half.

The stamp team was forced to play catch-up all game, jumping in front only when it counted.

Jeff Howe led the winners with a hat trick and one assist. Steve McCracken, Dennis McKee and Ivan Ingram were the other Stamp sharpshooters, with one each. Ingram and Bern Berry notched two assists each, with single helpers going to Barry Smith, McCracken and John Teljeur.

Newfer Burke notched two of the KDD goals and assisted on two more. The other KDD marksmen were Glenn Hall, Tran LaRue and Ed Gibbons. LaRue also assisted on the four other KDD goals. Gibbons picked up two assists and one each went to Jason "Spade" Stamp and Hall.

HALIBURTON HIGHLANDS OUTDOORS ASSOCIATION Deerhound Lost-and-Found

This year the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association is running a service for deer & moose hunters and any person who may find a lost hound.

If you find a lost hound during this year's moose or deer hunt, first check the dog's collar for an identification plate with the owners name and phone number. If the dog has a number clipped or painted on it, you may contact the owner using the list below, or drop the dog off at a Lost-and-Found Centre. If the dog has no number you may drop the dog off at any one of the nine Deerhound Lost-and Found Centres listed below.

If you are the owner of a lost hound and are not registered with the Association, you should call any of the Lost-and-Found Centres. At the end of this year's hunt, unclaimed dogs will be turned over to the nearest municipal pound. Following the hunt, please call your municipal office.

Camps registered with the Lost-and-Found should display their camp number at their road entrance. To claim your dog at a Lost-and-Found Centre you must provide proper identification and pay a $5.00 per day boarding fee.

The Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association is an Association dedicated to the outdoor sport of hunting and fishing and currently has about 500 members. The Association thanks those individuals and businesses who have volunteered to act as a drop-off centre. If you wish to join the Association please contact Ron Berry at 457-3243.

Dysart council considers Harcourt time share proposal property. Ideally, several buyers together therefore share the cost of the property, some using it in one season, others using it at other times, reducing their individual cost.

Says Sibbald, "The marketing of this time share will be somewhat different from traditional time share, which has got something of a bad name. We see our marketing going in three directions — we believe they're are a lot of older cottagers who are finding their cottages harder to maintain these days, and yet are reluctant to give up the area they love... Secondly there is a large number of people with family incomes in excess of $60,000 a year, some 2 million people in fact, living within two and a half hours drive of here... The third market is the international market. We know that a lot of German people just love this sort of thing. So we will be doing some international promotion. I've got some ideas for getting some package deals put together with the major airlines."

Sibbald says he expects the provincial government's international marketing of Algonquin Park as a tourism destination will also work in his consortium's favour.

The Martin building was completed in 1986. It's something of an oddity — a 24,000 square foot corporate headquarters, opulently appointed in natural stone and exotic woods, complete with a 4,000 foot airstrip and hangar, in the middle of a forest. It was meant to be used as the new head office of G. W. Martin Lumber, which until recently also ran a mill in the area. Martin died in an airplane crash shortly after its completion, however, and various complications following this event lead to the company closing down its operations in the Harcourt area. The building went up for sale five years ago.

Sibbald says he has been attempting to market the building to firms throughout the world for most of three years now, but so far, the odd combination of the building's cost, location, and design have made it difficult to come up with a buyer and a compatible use. The ecotourism concept is the only one he can see that really looks good — compatible with current surrounding land uses, and economically viable. But, he says, he thinks it looks very good indeed.

"We're determined," says Sibbald, "to see that the property is put to a use that is financially viable in the long term, beneficial to the local residents, and compatible with the natural wilderness environment."

How quickly they can get all of this together, says Sibbald, really depends on the rezoning. They've already met with the MOET and with immediate neighbours, carried out hydrogeological and lake usage studies, and submitted rezoning applications. The building itself and the 41 acres surrounding it have to be rezoned to resort commercial, while an 11 acre zone on the shore of Benoit Lake will be established as a conservation area. They're meeting with the council of Dysart et al today (October 10) to explain the proposal. Ideally, says Sibbald, if the zoning were done by late spring, the facility could be open as early as Christmas of 1996.

"That," he says, "would be a nice target."

The consortium estimates the project will create 15 to 20 construction jobs, and 30 to 50 full and part-time service jobs.

Kawartha West High School Football League

Junior Redmen earn first victory of the season, downing LCVI 14-0

by Bruce Griffith

The Haliburton junior Redmen football team went on its first road trip of the Kawartha West League schedule on October 3 and brought home a much-needed victory. After losing a battle to the very strong Weldon team on September 29, the Redmen had to beat the LCVI Spartans in order to keep in sight of a playoff game and to keep the Kawartha West Championship Trophy at home. That trophy has stayed in Haliburton since 1990.

With a much improved offensive line and a well practised backfield, quarterback Greg Simmons moved the ball well against a tough Spartan defensive line.

Fullback Logan Perry scored first for the Redmen in the second quarter with a 47 yard run. Tailback James Jennings ran the ball in for a two-point conversion.

With seconds left in the first half, Haliburton came within eight yards of scoring, with bull quarterback Mike Morissette running plays to Greg Simmons and Ryan Anderson.

The second half of the game saw the Redmen defence dominate the game, stopping the LCVI drive time and time again. Defensive linemen and linebackers made nine behind-the-line tackles, totally frustrating the LCVI running backs. Defensive standouts were Corey Casey, Glen McGuire, Nathan Koz, Shane Parks and rookie sensations Darren Gilbert, Jon Swinson and Sean Martin.

Only a few minutes remained in the game when three-year veteran and team captain James Jennings ran the ball into the LCVI end zone virtually untouched after some great blocks from the offensive line of John Consack, Chris Kerr, Mike Barbour and Wayne Kernohan.

The final score of 14-0 will set the stage for the Haliburton junior Redmen as week four sees the defending champs in Fenelon Falls on October 10 and at Weldon on the 13th.

Coach Griff's predictions: Redmen 36, Fenelon 0; and Redmen 20, Weldon 14.

Bulls-eyes in season at Staunworth

Staunworth Court residents are at that "in-between" season - is it time to drag out the winter clothing? Where is that flannelette sheet? Do I need new winter boots?

In the meantime, a walk to the end of our street or into the Fair Grounds and we can enjoy all the beauty of the Fall season. We have so much of nature in our own backyard.

Our lawn bowlers and shuffleboarders are ending their season with banquets and perhaps there will be a "reward" or two for some residents.

We said "Goodbye" to Bill and Isobel O'Brien at our Pot Luck supper. They are still Mindenites but we will miss their enthusiasm in our building.

One of the exciting moments at darts was seeing Brad casually throw a "bullseye" and follow it with an easy throw to a number needed to win the game. We think Shirley Hewitt got in some practice hours as she came up with TWO of the same the next week! The rest of us are just "aiming" to do the same.

Doris Foster enjoyed a two week holiday with friends in Hamilton, ending her stay with a bus trip through the New England States.

We are sorry to report we do have some residents on the sick list. Harry Cowen is still in Peterborough Civic Hospital and Jean Marsh is returning to Toronto for further tests. We do wish them well and a speedy return to Staunworth.

We extend a welcome to two new residents, Daisy Bates and Ted Madill.

*"When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you are trudging Seems all uphill,
When funds are low And debts are high,
And you want to smile But you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you Down a bit,
Rest if you must, But do not quit."*

Trent-Severn levels report

On Monday, October 2/95, the Haliburton Lakes of the Trent Severn Waterway averaged 44%, which was very close to the 20 year average for these lakes. Recent weeks have been very dry giving September a total precipitation in the Kawarthas of only about 50 mm.

Next week, on October 11 the navigation season ends along the canal route. In Haliburton area some stop-logs have yet to be removed to set for winter, usually completed before October 31, and some have to be replaced to restore levels for the fall-spawning fish and traditional setting for other "over winter" purposes.

Kawartha Lakes operation will change too in the autumn as they are lowered a little. Winter lowering begins about the first of January.

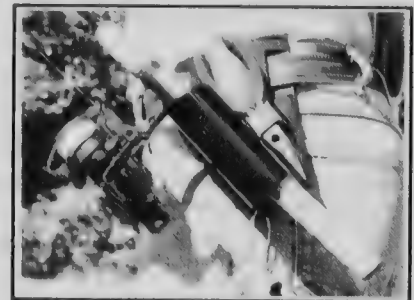

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching seems about to go below its rule curve level which is fairly typical in dry years. The average level for the many years on record for these lakes does fall below rule at this time of year.

The War Amps believes it has a responsibility to warn younger generations about the true horrors of war. Awards presented for special achievements at Terry Fox Run

The 1995 Terry Fox Run in Minden was a very successful event, raising $6,798.71 in total pledges. That represents an increase of more than $3,000 over last year.

Owners of the Minden Subway Sandwiches franchise, Kim and Jerry Campbell, provided incentives in the form of Subway products for those whose participation warranted special recognition in the annual fund raiser for cancer research.

Martha Steen of Eagle Lake received a three foot party sub. Rebecca Neave and Nickki Armstrong, both of Minden, earned a kid's pack each. Nickki will be next year's designated team player. She has leukemia in remission.

Debbie Cunningham of Tip To Toes (Minden) and Debbie Carpenter of Headlines Hair Styling (Minden) were the winners of a party platter.

Pamela Cuff of Bradford, Ontario (who cottages in the area) also received a three-foot party sub. She raised more than $400 in pledges.

Illa Cooper of Minden and Lee Quackenbush of Mountain Lake each received a sweatshirt, donated by Gordon A. Monk.

Scott Martino of West Guilford was presented with an NHL T-shirt, donated by John Thomas of Stedmans in Minden. Scott's mother died of cancer a few days before the run. Organizers of the Terry Fox Run were so inspired by Scott "going the distance for his mom" they decided to do something special for him.

Bargain hunters

There was lots to shop for at the annual CHACE Place yard sale, Saturday September 30. Once again, Dave's on 35 provided the space to display the multitude of items up for grabs. The annual fund raising sale was also blessed with ideal weather conditions which brought out a large contingent of bargain hunters. In addition to the items for sale, a raffle was held and a portion of the sales at Dave's was donated to the cause. According to organizer Sue Grieves, close to $1500 was raised.

From here to Disney World

Indoor walkers beat the weather and stay healthy year-round

Icy paths and minus 30 degree temperatures will sweep upon us soon. For that reason, Archie Stouffer Elementary School opened its halls as of last week to the people of Minden who walk to stay healthy. Walkers are welcome at the school every day from 7:30 a.m. to 8:15.

Since the program started almost two years ago, walkers have put one sneaker in front of the other for more than 1475 miles -- a distance which would take them well into Florida, as far south as Disney World.

Champion walker for both years is Vera Bagshaw. Her well-known grit and determination has had her stride around the school 1,344 times, a total distance of 359 miles.

One mile is equal to 3.5 circuits of the school's hallways. The apparent discrepancy in the math is due to an increase in hall lengths which occurred with the new construction in 1994.

Other Minden walkers who regularly grind out the miles include Denzil Cox, Harry Earle, Morris Duff and Sinc Nesbitt.

Everyone is welcome to join the trek on regular school mornings. No fees are charged. Jogging and running are not permitted.

The walking program is organized by the Haliburton County Heart and Stroke Foundation. Its aim is to help Minden and area citizens develop and maintain healthy hearts and lungs. Sustained walking at a quick pace exercises and strengthens the heart muscle. Walking is an exercise that other health organizations, such as the Diabetes Association recommend.

To be a part of the program, simply be on hand at 7:30 a.m. any school morning. One of the experienced walkers will be pleased to show newcomers the route.

The Wonderful Seven Wonders

Ever wonder about the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World? They are made up of the greatest feats of ancient technology, architecture, and art.

All have disappeared except the Great Pyramids of Egypt. They include:

1. The Colossus of Rhodes: A bronze statue of a young god wearing a sun-ray crown and looking out to sea. The Colossus of Rhodes was built by the citizens of Rhodes in 305 BC.

Many stories have exaggerated the size of this statue, but it was estimated at 120 feet high.

Although it was reinforced with stone and iron, the Colossus broke at the knees and fell in an earthquake 60 years later. It remained a wonder until the Arab invasion (AD 653), when it was broken up and sold for scrap metal.

2. The Hanging Gardens of Babylon: Although nobody knows for sure, The Hanging Gardens of Babylon are said to be built for the wife of King Nebuchadnezzar II to remind her of her mountainous homeland.

This terraced garden was thought to be comprised of a 23 foot wall on which trees had been planted to create a majestic view.

3. The Tomb at Halicarnassus: A massive tomb built for a Ruler of Persia, Mausolus, its roof was a 24-step pyramid with a chariot on top. This tomb became so famous that now all large tombs are called mausoleums.

4. The Pharos of Alexandria: The prototype for ancient lighthouses, the Pharos of Alexandria was a rectangular, tiered tower that stood 400 feet high. It had a wood fire burning on top. The 15th-century fort of Qait Bay now stands on its ruins.

5. The Pyramids of Egypt: The only standing of the Wonders today, the Pyramids were old before the other six wonders were built. They were giant tombs built for ancient Egyptian Kings (pharaohs).

The largest is the Great Pyramid of Khufu, which stands 482 feet high with a base of 755 square feet.

6. The Statue of Zeus at Olympia: Made of Gold and Ivory, this statue was approximately 40 feet high. The figure sat on an elaborate throne covered with ebony, glass, and gemstone inlays. In front of the figure was a stone basin filled with oil to protect it from the damp air of Olympia.

The famous Athenian sculptor Phidias made the figure in a special workshop behind the temple.

7. The Temple of Artemis at Ephesus: With a base of 377 by 180 feet, this roofless temple housed a primitive statue of Artemis. The columns of the porch carried reliefs of mythical characters and inscriptions recording donations by King Croesus of Lydia.

The original structure burned in the rebellion of 356 BC and was rebuilt on a higher base. It was finally destroyed by the Goths in AD 263.

Vendors' Show & Sale proves popular

Bonjour!!

Autumn is here and the colours are wonderful. Few of us realize we live in one of the most beautiful areas in the world and a lot of people just take our stunning land for granted. However, we are fortunate to be able to live, work, and raise our children here.

Our branch has been very busy as usual. Lately we have enjoyed Legion Week with colour parties parading to the cenotaph on Decoration Day. Afterwards, we enjoyed light refreshments and an entertaining afternoon listening to the Bracebridge Pipe Band.

Our Sunday afternoon openings continue to be successful with the horseraces, meat draws and quite often we have entertainment with music by the "Pleasant Point Sweethearts."

Bill Blyth has introduced a new Friday night feature. It's a fish and chips night from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. ... great food for only $4.85 per person, per serving.

September 30th we enjoyed another "Pub Crawl" visiting Coboconk, Brechin and Beaverton Branches. Our members fared well, winning a lot of meat draws and a beautiful, hand-made Louisiana style Barbie Doll. The Crawl was ably organized by Elaine and Cal Davison. Thanks! We'll let everyone know of upcoming events of these special outings.

The seniors group report a great day in Toronto, cruising, dining, and the wonderful musical "Forever Plaid". Harold Parks said he could have sat through 2 performances, so it has to be really good. The people travelling to Las Vegas on our "Autumn Getaway" October 15 will be able to enjoy "Forever Plaid" at our own hotel, the Flamingo Hilton on "the strip".

The Ladies Auxiliary held a new event on Sunday October 1. Called the Vendors' Show and Sale, it is a day where artists and crafts persons set up their wares throughout the branch. It was a very good day and the Auxiliary made a nice profit, with a good turnout of customers and vendors. Light refreshments were available.

The weekend of October 6 we had a Thanksgiving

Service Clubs by Cub Coneybeare

Smorgasboard with all the trimmings. The dinner and dance with the smooth sounds of Kidd Kountry was sold out very quickly and we all enjoyed a relaxing evening at the Branch. I'll report on the night next time.

Member profile

This month's "Profile" is on our immediate past president Bill Blyth.

Bill Blyth was born in Scotland and served in the R.A.O.C. as a textile refitter. (Ropes, flags and equipment repair.)

He came to Canada by way of Quebec in 1952, settled in Weston, then moved to Milton in 1956. Later he moved to Etobicoke where he set up his business and worked as a contractor for the Federal Government, mostly for the Addiction Research Foundation, after which he moved to Calgary. He spent several years in Fort McMurray where he built part of the a sub-division.

They moved back to Ontario in 1976. Worked at his old trade (contracting). During his wonderful years he built and repaired cottages in the Haliburton and North Bay area. He found the travel taking too much of his time so bought a cottage on Crystal Lake and worked from there. In 1989, he retired, sold the house in Bramalea and lived at the cottage in the summer and Florida in the winter. He liked the area so much, he bought a home in Minden in 1992.

Bill joined the Legion Branch #609 Bramalea the year after it got its Charter, became President the following year serving for two years, 1968 and 1969. During his term they purchased the property that the building stands on today. They paid approximately $68 000 for 6-7 acres. People said they were "crazy", the mortgage was $238.62 per month. The property today is worth in the millions so I guess they were not so crazy.

Bill transferred to Minden in 1990. Thanks to Bill for his year as President of Branch #636 Minden. Thanks for a great job.

Cub's chuckles

An antelope and a lion took a booth in a roadside diner. When the waiter came over, the antelope said; "I'll have a bowl of hay and a side order of radish, please."

"What will your friend be having?"

"Nothing for him."

"Isn't he hungry?"

"Idiot," exclaimed the antelope in disbelief, "If he was hungry, do you think I'd be sitting here??"

When the newlywed came home to find his wife sobbing in the bedroom, he rushed to put his arms around her.

"Darling, What's the matter?" he asked.

"I baked you a chocolate layer cake," she said.

"Honey, that's nothing to cry about," he soothed.

"I know," she replied drying her eyes, "but I set it on the kitchen table and Bowzer ate it."

"That's okay, honey," he said, "I'll get you another dog."

Till next time, hope you had a nice Thanksgiving. Here's to you.

Our dwindling farmland

Throughout human history, our ancestors learned from their past successes and mistakes and applied those lessons to anticipate the consequences of what they were doing. It was a successful strategy, but today's politicians and business leaders fail to follow it as they forget these past and let short-term considerations shape their current decisions and actions.

My daughters, Severn and Sarika, will reach the age of 21 in 2000 and 2004 respectively and could well live beyond 2050, the date to which many scientific projections are aimed. In fact, most people alive today and another five billion people could be around in 2050, so what we do or don't do now will have vast repercussions on their lives.

The media are the public's major source of knowledge and information about the world. Yet, in their rush to hype ratings and readership, they devote disproportionate space and time to fulfilling Andy Warhol's prediction of everyone's fifteen minutes of fame. The media exhibit the same myopia, short attention and preoccupation with trivia as politicians and business people, paying relatively little heed to ideas and information from scientists.

David Pimentel and Henry Kendall are world-renowned scientists whose recent work has enormous economic, ecological and social implications. Pimentel is a professor at Cornell University and expert on agriculture and insect population dynamics. Kendall, an MIT physicist, won a Nobel Prize in 1990. In Ambio (vol 23, 1994), published by the Swedish Academy of Sciences, Kendall and Pimentel published a paper entitled Constraints on the Expansion of the Global Food Supply. Its grim warning must not be ignored.

They report that, "In the early 1960s, most nations were self sufficient in grain output by a staggering 260 per cent, but at enormous cost of increased use of fossil energy for fertilizers, pesticides and irrigating to raise crops. It greatly increased the energy intensiveness ... in some cases by 100-fold or more."

Overwhelmed by the rise in population, the benefits of increased production proved temporary: "Per capita grain production in Africa is down 12 per cent since 1981 and down 22 per cent since 1967. Some 20 years ago, Africa produced food equal to what is consumed; today it produces only 80 per cent of what it consumes." Globally, since 1981, total land planted with grain declined by 8 per cent, making the U.S. and Canada the major exporters of grain and rendering most of the world precariously dependent on the vagaries of the world market.

Those of us who eat a diet rich in meat and fish are a privileged minority living high on the food chain. Globally, marine fish catches are in decline and even with intensive aquaculture, cannot keep up with population growth. Kendall and Pimentel conclude: "With the world population and 5.5 billion, even if we all become vegetarians, there are limits. Food production depends on available soil and there is very little new cropland to be found.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

"Most of the unexploited land is either too steep, too wet, too dry or too cold for agriculture."

As a consequence, the only potential source of new arable soil will be forests and range land.

"In the 1970s, there was a net gain in world cropland of nearly 0.7 per cent ... in 1990, the net annual gain was about 0.35 per cent per year, largely as a result of deforestation."

Productive soil is being lost through "erosion, salinization, waterlogging and urbanization, with its associated highway and road construction. Nutrient depletion, over-cultivation, over grazing, acidification and soil compaction contribute as well."

It takes an average of 500 years to build up 2.5 centimeter of topsoil. Today, it "is being lost 16 to 300 times faster than it can be replaced. Worldwide soil erosion has caused farmers to abandon about 430 million hectares of arable land during the last 40 years, an area equivalent to about one third of all present cropland." Global loss of soil exceeds new soil production by an estimated 23 billion tonnes a year, about 0.7 per cent of the world's soil inventory. At this rate, when Sarika is in her 60s, over 30 per cent of the planet's soil will be gone while population will be doubled. Nor is more intensive irrigation the solution.

Already, 70 per cent of the freshwater we use is for irrigating of 16 per cent of the world's cropland. But megadams create massive social and ecological problems while deep wells deplete ground water. Irrigated fields produce a third of all crops but 1.5 million hectares (one per cent) a year are lost from salinization. Kendall and Pimentel conclude: "Nearly 30 per cent of the world's presently irrigated acreage will be lost by 2025 and nearly 50 per cent by 2050."

Today's politicians and business people may not be around then, but our children and grandchildren will.

September was another pleasant month, the third in a row this summer. It was slightly cooler than last September, probably the result of the morning frosts. Last September there were only two mornings with frost while this year we experienced eight. Up to October 5, the show of fall colours has been the best in years. The end may be at hand, however. As of this date (October 5) we are preparing for heavy rain and winds over the next few days as a result of Hurricane Opal.

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

A beautiful Friday morning last week, some spinners and weavers were at the Museum Complex with demonstrations of their crafts outside on the lawn. This was enjoyed not only by the school class in attendance but by myself on my daily walk downtown.

The Women's Institute plans to hold a raffle with proceeds to the Lion's Medical Centre and the Christmas Hampers. The draw will be held just before Christmas.

Good wishes to the following: Garth Windsor, Verne Graham, John Francis, Harry Cowen, Bill Harrison and Shirley Bunker. May you all be in better health soon.

Peggy and Sid Brown from London spent several days with Evelyn and Loyne Cox at The Terrace. They were amazed at the spectacular colour of the autumn leaves and say a great big hello to all the friends they missed seeing.

Winners at St. Paul's Monday afternoon euchre games were Verna McDonald, Jeanne Sears, Hazel Austen and Jack Chilton with most lone hands. The draw went to Nancy Gayton and the next games there will be October 16 at 1:30 p.m.

October 3 winners at Stanhope Bridge group were Jack Croucher, Russ Fair and Helen Heald. Everyone is welcome to join the fun at 1 p.m. every Tuesday at Stanhope Library.

Birthdays you might wish to know of are Jack Irvine on October 7 and Brandon Viney on October 9.

Old friend, Thelma Beetham of Whitby, enjoyed several days visiting with Mary Wilson.

Congratulations to Marjorie Cowen who has given 21 years of exemplary service to Stanhope Library. You'll be missed. Enjoy your retirement!

Senior bid euchre winners at Legion Branch 636 Seniors games on September 26 were: Jack Chilton, Jean Scadden, Shirley Elcome and with a moonshot, Iris Taylor. On October 3 winners included Jack Chilton, Trudy Pennick, Bev Johnson and a moonshot to Trudy P. The games begin each Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome to attend.

Euchre game winners at Gelert Centre on October 4 were Helen Byne, May Hicks, Bruce O'Brien and George Bartley with most lone hands going to Kit Schroter. Next games at Gelert will be October 17 at 7:30 p.m. for a great evening of cards.

Weekly euchre games continuing at the Noble Motel with the winners for October 4 being Tom Milne, Marcel Rousselle and Bob Thompson with most lone hands. Games begin every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., all welcome.

A good crowd enjoyed the weekly bid euchre games at Stanhope Centre on October - holding moonshots were Helen Lee, Marian McClelland, Grenville Griffin and Marjorie Cowen. Other winners included Lottie Ruttan, Kate Cline and Marian Irwin (tied) and Edith Russell. For the men, Peter Farr, Jim Skinner, Brian Henderson and Harry Stewart. Hidden score went to Jean Scadden.

Called in were Line Dancing for men and women, beginners welcome at St. Paul's starting Tuesday, October 24 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon with volunteer teachers John and Margaret Foster. You may call 286-2013 for information. Fourth annual Craft Sale and Flea Market December 2 & 3 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Minden Community Centre - John Hulbig will be special guest. Phone 286-6010.

Winners at Club 35 euchre games on October 2 included David Lamb with most lone hands, Loretta Lamb and David Lamb with the highs, Pearl Kernohan, Charlie Hendry and Merv Bunker. 50-50 draw went to Mary Schad. Everyone is welcome to attend these weekly games held Mondays at 7:30 p.m. No partners needed.

Sincere sympathy to the families and friends of the late Jean Swanton and Dorothy Rose (Bernstein) Webber who passed away recently.

The colourful scenery is just tremendous at the moment and I really enjoyed my drive last Saturday Helen and also to Shuffle at Stanhope on Tuesday. However, in my opinion, there is no prettier view than the School Hill or the view from the bridge down the Gull River. Will there be any leaves left if the threatened hurricane arrives?

IN MEMORIAM

JOHNSTON, Myles - In loving memory of a dear son and brother who was killed October 11, 1968. Remembrance is a golden chain. Death tries to break, all in vain. To have, to love and then to part, Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart. Years may wipe out many things But this they wipe out never, Our Myles' memories of those happy days Will live in our hearts forever. Deeply loved and sadly missed by Mom, brother and sisters.

McAFEE, Gordon W. - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandad who passed away October 12, 1990. We treasured our years together With memories that will always last. Wife Margaret and family.

IN MEMORIAM

WRIGHT, Eunice - In loving memory of my dear wife who passed away October 14, 1994. My lips cannot tell how much I miss her, My heart cannot tell what to say, God alone knows how I miss her, In a home that is lonesome today. Till we meet again in Heaven, Your loving husband, Truman Wright.

WRIGHT, Eunice - In loving memory of our dear sister-in-law who passed away October 14, 1994. We often think of bygone days when we were all together, The family chain is broken now but memories will live forever. To us she has not gone away Nor has she travelled far Just entered God's eternal home And left the gates ajar. Sadly missed by Frank and Blanche
